CHISENHALE GALLERY 2018 COMMISSIONS

Chisenhale Gallery commissions and produces contemporary art supporting international and UK-based artists to pursue new directions and make their most ambitious work to date. The gallery has an award winning, 35-year history as one of London's most innovative forums for contemporary art and operates alternately as a production agency, exhibition hall, research centre and community resource.

The 2018 exhibitions programme comprises new commissions by Lydia Ourahmane, Paul Maheke, Banu Cennetoğlu and Lawrence Abu Hamdan.

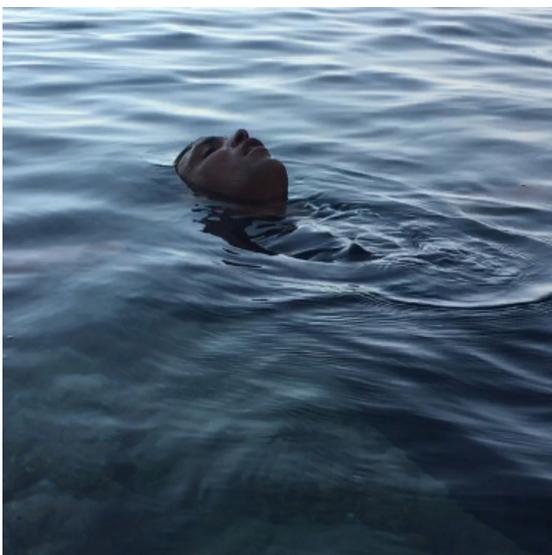

Working with video, performance, sound and installation these artists explore how knowledge is produced, exchanged and consumed. Their work also raises complex questions concerning the effects of geographic borders on bodies and how systems of governance influence everyday experience. As part of the commissioning process, a series of discursive events is programmed in collaboration with each artist and runs throughout the duration of each exhibition.

Highlights of the 2018 commissions programme include:

- A major new commission and first institutional solo presentation by London and Oran-based artist Lydia Ourahmane. Drawing from a personal experience, Ourahmane explores questions regarding the conditions of violence and potential forms of resistance.
- The first major solo presentation in a UK institution by London-based artist Paul Maheke. Working with performance, sculpture and video Maheke's new commission explores power structures, cosmology and magic.
- The first solo exhibition in a UK institution by Berlin and Istanbul-based artist Banu Cennetoğlu whose work incorporates methods of mapping, collecting and archiving, in order to question the distribution and consumption of information.
- A major new commission by Berlin and Beirut-based artist and 'private ear' Lawrence Abu Hamdan, interrogating how information is analysed and truth is determined.

The first solo exhibition in an institution by London and Oran-based artist Lydia Ourahmane. Incorporating installation, performance, video, and sound, Ourahmane's work explores the psychological resonance of organic and industrial environments. Following an incident where two guard dogs were stolen from her home in Oran, Ourahmane began an investigation into their whereabouts. For her commission at Chisenhale Gallery, Ourahmane draws from this investigation to explore the conditions and systems that produce violence and the forms of resistance that counter them.
